

Dr. R.E. Bowles, Mr. R.W. Warren, & Mr. B.M. Horton create the Fluidic Amplifier

Bowles Engineering is founded

Bowles Fluidics is incorporated adding manufacturing capabilities

Awarded first automotive business for the 1979MY Ford Mustang

Attains Ford Q1 Quality award

Begins manufacturing operation in Fresnillo, Mexico

Bowles Fluidics acquired by Morgenthaler Private Equity

dlhBOWLES becomes official legal entity

ABC Technologies acquires dlhBOWLES March 1, 2022

1958

1961

1970

1975

1977

1981

1982

1985

1999

2006

2007

2011

2013

2014

2015

2016

2022

DLH Industries founded by Mr. D.L. Houck as injection molding company in Canton, OH

First major customer General Electric for television control knobs

Company adds extrusion and forming capabilities

Company begins automotive supply to General Motors

Manufacturing expanded to 40,000 sq. ft. facility in Carrollton, OH

Recognized as GM "Supplier of the Year" the first of six (6) such awards

Opens 65,000 sq. ft. manufacturing facility in Bristol, TN

Begins manufacturing operation in Matamoros, Mexico

DLH acquired by Morgenthaler Private Equity, merged with Bowles Fluidics to create dlhBOWLES

New 135,000 sq. ft. distribution facility opens in McAllen, TX